I Loved
This!

Diane R. recommends
Ape House
by Sara Gruen.

She says "An insightful entertaining and easy to read novel. I certainly wanted to learn more about bonobos, and the interesting work being undertaken at the Great Ape Trust."

A Fine Romance, by Candice Bergen, begins with Bergen's charming first husband, French director Louis Malle, but her real romance begins when she discovers overpowering love for her daughter after years of ambivalence about motherhood.

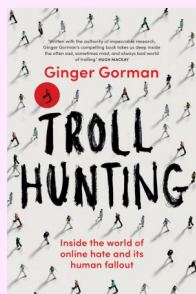

As Chloe grows up, Bergen finds her comic genius in the biggest TV role of the 80s, Murphy Brown, and makes unwanted headlines when Dan Quayle pulls her into the 1992 presidential campaign. A natural writer, Candice is hilarious, brutally honest, down-to-earth, and wise. (Goodreads.com)

Troll Hunting

by Ginger Gorman.

In 2013, journalist Ginger Gorman was trolled online. She received scores of hateful tweets, including a death threat. A picture of Ginger heavily pregnant alongside her husband and two-and-half year old daughter appeared on a fascist website. Understandably she was terrified, but once the attack subsided, she found herself curious. Who were these trolls? How and why did they coordinate such an attack? And how does someone fight back against a troll?

An intense and compelling read, Troll Hunting is an important window into not just the mindset and motivation of trolls, but the history of this kind of aberrant behaviour. Ginger Gorman has gained unprecedented access to trolls, even formed strange and enduring relationships with them, and her comprehensive investigation into what makes them tick has given us a brilliant book that is impossible to put down. DVD Review

Aurore

2017 Rated M.

French drama/comedy with English subtitles.

This refreshing and funny French film is about ageing and coming to terms with its physical and emotional challenges.

Aurore is in her early fifties, separated from her husband and living with her younger daughter. She finds she is having to contend with frequent 'bouffées de chaleur' (hot flushes). She is also frustrated by changes in her workplace and unsettled by the news that her older daughter is pregnant. When she accidentally bumps into her significant first love she begins to reflect on decisions of the past and contemplate possibilities for the future.

Agnes Jaoui plays the role of Aurore with great warmth and conviction and there are some memorable scenes depicting the rich connections between family and friends. This is a touching and engaging film which manages to enlighten as well as entertain.
