DVD Review

Girls (2012 - 2017)

An aspiring writer, Hannah Horvath receives an unpleasant surprise when her parents cut her off financially. She then struggles to make ends meet and launch her career with the help of her friends.

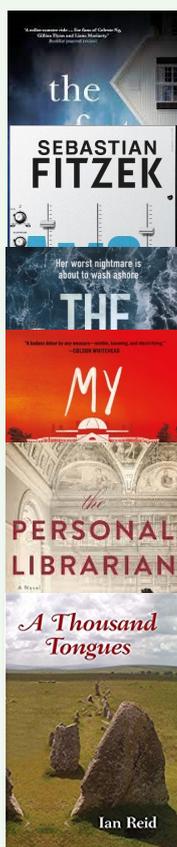

Great series that shows life doesn't always turn out the way you think it's going to. It shows a different perspective that the characters can be unpleasant at times and make questionable choices. PSA: there is a lot of nudity. It also introduces us to Adam Driver, who has gone onto star in many great movies. AA

The Younger Wife by Sally Hepworth. (2021).

Tully and Rachel are angry when they discover their father has a new half his age girlfriend, Heather; especially because Stephen is still married to their mother Pam who is in a care facility with Alzheimer's disease. Heather knows she has an uphill battle to win the women over, while carrying the burden of the secrets from her past. But, as it turns out, they are all hiding something. The announcement of Stephen and Heather's engagement threatens to set off a family implosion with old wounds and dark secrets being forced to the surface. A garage full of stolen goods. An old hot-water bottle stuffed with cash. A blood-soaked wedding. And that's only the beginning...

Yet another engrossing and captivating read from this author. Every time I read one of her books I swear I've just sat down and then all of a sudden it's been a couple of hours haha. This book is told primarily from three viewpoints: adult sisters Rachel and Tully, and their future stepmother Heather who is slightly younger than them. There's a lot going on with these women that you can just see is going to lead to a big meltdown. I don't want to include any spoilers because I'm not that kind of girl, so you'll have to trust me when I say the secrets they are all keeping are all quite explosive. I thought Rachel's was fairly obvious and I'm not sure why her family didn't work it out; Tully's was unusual and interesting which made her more personable I thought; and Heather's came out of nowhere!

State Heritage Sites

A list of State Heritage Sites in the Town of Bassendean can be found on the Town's website under History and Heritage History & Heritage » Town of Bassendean and in a free brochure from the Library.

What is the State Register of Heritage Places?

The State Register of Heritage Places is a statutory list of places that represent the story of Western Australia's history and development. Places included in the State Register include buildings, structures, gardens, cemeteries, memorials, landscapes and archaeological sites.

The Register is managed by the Heritage Council of Western Australia with the assistance of the Department of Planning, Lands and Heritage.

Entry in the State Register means that any changes or works proposed for the place need to be referred, usually by the responsible local government, to the Heritage Council for advice.

Heritage can incorporate both the tangible and the intangible. It is present in many forms such as landmarks, places, buildings and contents, spaces, views and the stories associated with them.

Nomination and Assessment

Any member of the public, an organisation or a local government can nominate a place to the State Register.

The Heritage Council reviews all nominations to determine if a full assessment should be carried out. This is based on whether it is likely that place will meet the threshold for entry in the State Register. Not all places nominated to the State Register are fully assessed or become registered. The most recent entry to the State Heritage Register from the Town of Bassendean is the 1876 Pillar Box, added in 2019, located at the corner of Surrey Street and North Road.
